

Statement –Juan Guo

1. Improve the image and the public's perception of the acupuncture industry:
The WHO pointed out that acupuncture has not only a clear direct treatment effect on over 38 diseases, but also has a good auxiliary effect on over dozens of other diseases. Unfortunately, most people's impression about acupuncture treatment is for weight loss and pain relief. We can raise the awareness of the diversity of acupuncture through some educational seminars. In this way, acupuncturists will be able to play a more important role in our existing multidisciplinary health care team hence more opportunities would be created.
2. Improve the professional quality of practitioners:
Continued education is of utmost importance to maintain and improve our knowledge as practitioners. Holding more seminars and events for our professionals allows us to share our experiences, improve communication, and social networking.
3. Maintain our professionalism:
Adhering to the professional code of ethics, achieving the unity and sharing the passion of our profession should also be promoted.
