- 4.3 Members and employees should report suspected violations of this policy.
- 4.4 A member or employee reporting a suspected Code violation related to discrimination, harassment, or workplace violence should refer to the Respectful Workplace Violation Response Procedure or the Workplace Violence Response Procedure.
- 4.5 For all other matters, the member or employee should refer to the Code of Conduct and Ethics Violation Reporting Procedure.
- 4.6 A member or employee who truthfully and in good faith reports a potential breach of this Code shall be protected from reprisal for such reporting.

Acknowledgement

- 4.7 Appointed members and employees are required, upon their appointment or employment with the College, to acknowledge that they have read and will comply with this policy. Appointed members are to reaffirm acknowledgement that they have read and will comply with this policy every three years thereafter, and employees are to reaffirm acknowledgement annually.

Additional Information

- 4.8 Additional information on selected topics is provided below:

Acceptance and Declaration of Gifts

- 4.8.1 Appointed members and employees must ensure that gifts of any value are never accepted from individuals or organizations where there is an actual or perceived conflict of interest.
- 4.8.2 Gifts may be accepted at the discretion of the appointed member or employee, when the gift is the normal exchange of hospitality between persons doing business together, a token or memento exchanged as part of business protocol or is received as a routine presentation of a gift for participation in a public function, and the individual gift has an approximate value of $200 or less. Cash may not be accepted regardless of value.
- 4.8.3 Gifts should not be accepted if they have an approximate value exceeding $200 or where the accumulative approximate value of gifts from a single source in a calendar year exceeds $400. Where appropriate, the gift should be returned to the sender, along with an appropriate explanation citing the College's policy.
- 4.8.4 All gifts accepted under 4.8.2 that exceed an approximate value of $100, or where the approximate accumulative value from a single source exceeds $100, must be reported to the Executive Director/Registrar, who will annually report on gifts accepted to the Council.

Dealings with Public Officials

- 4.8.5 All dealings between members or employees and public officials are to be conducted in a manner that will not compromise the integrity or reputation of any public official or the College.

Disclosure of Confidential Information

- 4.8.6 Members and employees shall respect and maintain the confidentiality of information pertaining to the College's business to which they become aware of through their employment or position with the College and may not use or disclose such information without the express consent of the College.

This requirement of confidentiality applies during the course of employment and continues after an employee leaves employment and a member's term ends with the College.

Political Contributions

- 4.8.7 As a non-partisan statutory corporation, the College does not engage in political activity. The use of funds, goods, or services of the College as contributions to political parties, candidates, or campaigns is not allowed. Contributions might include money or anything having value, including advertising, services, entertainment, trips, use of facilities, or use of other assets of the College.

While contributions made as a private citizen are acceptable, no member or employee will be reimbursed for any political contributions made using the College's resources. Political activities must be clearly separated from activities related to an individual's duties and responsibilities with the College.

A member must not wear College-branded items when campaigning for a political party.

The Law

- 4.8.8 Members and employees must comply with all applicable laws and legal requirements in the course of business or at any time when acting in the capacity of a member or an employee of the College.
